What is TCO Certified, Generation 10?

TCO is the leading global sustainability certification for IT products, setting high standards for environmental and social responsibility across the entire product lifecycle. It's not just a label—it's a commitment to creating a better, greener world through smarter product choices.

*This statement is valid only for European countries, excluding Russia, Belarus, and/or any others where sales are not active.

Key Focus Areas:

- Environmental Responsibility: Ensuring eco-friendly production, reduced hazardous materials, and energy-efficient design
- Social Responsibility: Upholding ethical practices in the supply chain, including fair labor conditions and safe workplaces
- Circular Economy: Promoting product durability, reparability, and sustainable end-of-life management
- Independent Verification: All TCO Certified products are independently tested to ensure they meet strict standards for sustainability and performance

Why Choose TCO Certified Philips Monitors?

TCO Certified Philips Monitors are designed for those who value innovation and care about their environmental impact. Choosing TCO Certified Philips Monitors means you're contributing to a future built on responsible practices—without compromising on quality or performance.

- Built with Purpose: TCO Certified monitors are crafted using sustainable materials, such as post-consumer recycled plastics
- Energy-Conscious Design: Advanced technologies minimize energy consumption, helping reduce your carbon footprint
- Durability That Lasts: Engineered for long-term use and reparability, reducing e-waste and supporting a circular economy
- Ethical Practices: Ensuring responsible manufacturing processes, aligned with Philips' commitment to integrity and sustainability
